Thinks that building up knowledge (learning hard skills) is essential, however, improving personality (soft) skills is of no lesser importance.

What is an excellent programmer good for if they cannot work in a team? What is a knowledgeable manager good for if they cannot deal with people? What good is a businessman who identify new opportunities but cannot negotiate a fair price?

Petr developed his knowledge and skills mostly in managerial posts in the corporate environment working for companies including GE Money Bank, HomeCredit, ING, Datart, Skoda Auto, Novartis, MSD and others.

Actively fills his leisure time with investment on financial markets, programming for fun, loves great food, fast cars, fine vodka, his wife, kids and dog.
